TAYLOR PATTERSON

Software Developer ⚲ VALDOSTA, 31602 │ (229)4441952

DETAILS

2610 Pebblewood Drive, Valdosta, 31602
(229)4441952
patterson.dtaylor@gmail.com

SKILLS

Software Design and Development

JavaScript

React

Node.JS

Python

Logical Thinking and Problem Solving

Testing and Debugging

Written and Verbal Communication

Dedicated team player

LINKS

Portfolio

LinkedIn

Github

PROFILE

While working as a special educator, I never imagined how much these two words would change my life's path, "Hello, world." Now, I cannot see myelf doing anything else other than software development. The ability to develop software through logical thinking/problem solving, working with various data structures, and constantly learning is an additiction I am not soon to get over.

EXPERIENCE

Face-Recognition React App

This app assists the user by using a Clarifai API to detect a face on a jpeg or png. This app also has a dedicated back-end to register users and number of photos the user has uploaded. This app was made with React, JS, and Node.JS.

Repo: https://github.com/patterson-dtaylor/face-recognition-app

Demo: https://sm-art-brain.herokuapp.com/

Robo-Friends

Based on a contacts app, this React app takes a database of contacts and displays random robots as icons for said contacts using the API from RoboHash. This app was built with Reack, JS, and Redux.

Repo: https://github.com/patterson-dtaylor/robofriends

Demo: https://patterson-dtaylor.github.io/robofriends/

Omi-Food Website

This real-world example of a responsive website showcases a faux food delievery company named Omni-Food. This website was built with HTML, CSS, JS, and little JQuery.

Repo: https://github.com/patterson-dtaylor/Omnifood-Project

Demo: https://patterson-dtaylor.github.io/Omnifood-Project/

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Teacher of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing at Lowndes County Schools, Valdosta

August 2013 — Present

EDUCATION

Masters of Deaf Education, Valdosta State University, Valdosta

Deaf Education, Valdosta State University, Valdosta

English, Valdosta State University, Valdosta

REFERENCES

References available upon request